UNITED STATES TO HOLD ALOOF

Will Take No Part in the European Controversy.

COOLIDGE'S STAND OUTLINED

Neither the Idea of an Economic Conference Nor the Plan Offered by Secretary Hughes Will Be Pressed by the Administration—Allied Powers Must Take the Initiative in the Matter.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The United States is determined to remain aloof from the European controversy so long as the powers immediately concerned fail to manifest any willingness to accept American good offices.

This was made plain in behalf of President Coolidge at the White House following the cabinet meeting. A spokesman for the president asserted definitely that the administration was pressing neither the idea of an economic conference nor the plan offered by Secretary of State Hughes for a fact finding commission to determine Germany's ability to pay reparations.

Last week a high administration official stated positively that, as France had definitely rejected the idea of a non-partisan commission, it was idle for the American government to entertain the plan as a solution of the present controversy.

This attitude on the part of Mr. Coolidge and his advisers is not to be interpreted as indicating any abandonment of the commission plan. The scheme, as set forth by Mr. Hughes in his New Haven speech a year ago, still stands as the American government's last authoritative comment on the method to be followed in solving the European economic tangle.

OHIO MAYOR ACCUSED

Illegals and Irregularities Alleged in Assessing Dry Fees.

Columbus, Oct. 10.—In a report filed by State Examiner H. D. Deffenbacher, illegals and irregularities are cited in assessing fees and costs in prohibition prosecutions and other cases of law violation, and in distribution of fines collected under various laws, against Mayor A. W. Ferren of East Palestine, O. Ferren is charged with exacting mileage fees from violators for his own transportation between East Palestine and Salem to the extent of $70 in 19 cases, illegally; of illegally assessing and retaining fees to the amount of $1,296.64, which is now due the city, and of illegal collections totaling $398 for analysis fees and fees for assistants, which should be paid into a defendants' trust fund in the city treasury.

Findings of $1,128.60 against Chief of Police W. Warren, of $150 against Patrolman Ed Harvey and of $140.70 against Special Officer S. E. Conrad are also cited, consisting of fees illegally drawn.

Big Airship Christened.

Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 10.—Shenandoah, "daughter of the stars," in the language of the Red Men, is the name of the navy's wonderful airship tested and found perfect under the name of ZR-1. A distinguished party attended the christening of the great ship here. After the big ship was christened she made an ascension. Mrs. Edwin Denby, wife of the secretary of the navy, christened the ship and released carrier pigeons, which will fly to Washington with the news of the launching.

Thieves Loot Store.

St. Paris, O., Oct. 10.—A gang of thieves in a truck backed up to the Geo. Urban department store here and drove off with $7,000 worth of merchandise.

MULATTO TESTIFIES

Honor of Helen Ellwood Stokes May Hang on Photograph.

New York, Oct. 10.—On a mere photograph may hang the honor of Helen Ellwood Stokes. As she left the courtroom after the second day of the divorce trial, in which her millionaire husband, W. E. D. Stokes, seeks to prove that she is "the lowest of the low," Helen Stokes wondered about the potency of a pictured face. The photograph, taken in evening dress, purported to be the likeness of the defendant. It was introduced into the case when Nell Rose Miller, mulatto, of the stand for the prosecution, identified it as that of Mrs. Stokes. "The first I knew of this case was when I saw that picture and recognized it as the woman I had seen in Mr. Wallace's apartment when I used to serve breakfasts there," the witness said.

Nell Miller was one time a waitress in a tea shop in the same building with the quarters of Edgar Wallace, former subway official and one of the 57 correspondents in this case.

To Probe Einstein Theory.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Einstein's theory of relativity, which has divided the scientific world, will be made the subject of the most searching investigation as yet applied to it. While stellar photographs, taken at the time of total eclipse of the sun, have been reported as partially confirming the "curved light theory" of the European scientist, its most important phase is as yet unproved. Its verification or disproval, it was revealed, hang in the balance upon the results of experiments soon to be inaugurated at the University of Chicago.

HELD STUPID BLUNDER

Failure of Allies to Accept Hughes Plan Rapped by Lloyd George.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—The failure of the allied governments to accept the American suggestion for the creation of a commission of economic experts to determine the amount of German reparations was declared to have been "one of the most stupid blunders of history," by David Lloyd George here. The former premier declared that if he were now in power as head of the British government he would take immediate steps to bring pressure upon France and other governments to agree to such a plan in order to settle the reparations controversy. His statement attacked the position taken by Bonar Law, who succeeded him as premier, and of Poincare, the French premier, who were in conference in Paris at the time the American suggestion was made. He declared that it is not too late to make such a proposal.

SKELETONS FOUND

Estimated by Scientists to Be at Least 15,000 Years Old.

Paris, Oct. 10.—Amazing discoveries of skeletons estimated to be at least 15,000 years old have been made during excavations near the village of Solutre, near Mason, France, where many significant archaeological discoveries were previously made, according to a report to the academy of sciences by the discoverer, Charles DePeret, famous scientist of Lyons. The skeletons were those of three young men between 25 and 30 years old, averaging six feet tall and of vigorous structure. The cranium box was high and large, though not very long. They had well developed cheek bones, low noses and long, straight inferior jaw bones, unusually high.

WALTON MAKES NEW PROPOSAL

Offers to Resign If Legislature Passes Anti-Klan Bill.

ISSUES LENGTHY STATEMENT

Members of the Oklahoma General Assembly, Most of Them Opponents of the Governor, Declare Walton's Proposal Will Not Be Accepted—Essence of the Chief Executive's Proposition.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 10.—Governor J. C. Walton has offered to resign if the legislature which meets Thursday will pass an anti-Ku Klux Klan law of his dictation.

The governor made his purpose known in a lengthy official statement. His proposed law would lay heavy penalties upon masked parties and prescribes certification of all secret society memberships with county clerks annually.

Members of the legislature, most of them opponents of the governor, indicated when they learned of the governor's proposal that it would not be accepted.

In his statement the governor said in part: "If this proposition is not accepted and the Klan members of the legislature, who are in a majority in both houses, as I am informed, undertake impeachment first and then promise to pass an anti-Ku Klux Klan law now being prepared at the headquarters of the invisible empire at Atlanta, Ga., I will have something more to say to the people of this state as to how we must proceed to protect ourselves from this organization of masked marauders, who have practical control of the judiciary and police power in the principal cities of the state."

The Skirvin hotel lobby was crowded with solons here for the special session of the legislature when Aldrich Blanke, counselor to the governor, appeared and communicated the governor's proposal. There was only a ripple of excitement.

VILLAGES MENACED BY WALLS OF FIRE

Many Square Miles of Timber Land Abiaze in Michigan.

Ontonagon, Mich., Oct. 10.—A wall of forest fire surrounded Ontonagon during the night.

Panic seized the people. Women and children tramped through the smoke-filled streets in fear. The men battled all night with the approaching flames.

Sixty square miles of timber land in this county alone are on fire. In Ontonagon every foot of fire hose has been laid and volunteers are keeping roofs wet as sparks shower from the sky.

At Greene, seven miles west of here, 12 houses have been burned. The village is threatened and the population has fled to open farming country. Refugees are housed in schools and barns.

Many logging and hunting camps and farm houses were destroyed throughout the district. Reports from Houghton said flames were nearing that place and lake summer resorts were in danger. Several cottages were destroyed at Twin Lake. Fire wardens said the forest fires threaten to be most destructive in recent years.

Golf Merger Planned.

New York, Oct. 10.—One of the principal topics for discussion at the annual meeting of the United States Golf association here in December will be the proposed merger of the national organization and the Western Golf association. If the merger is completed the new body will be known as the Golf Association of America, having general supervision over all golf matters in the United States, according to apparently reliable reports.

"Squeezed" by Conductor.

Cincinnati, Oct. 10.—Miss Ada Dugins, 18, asks for $15,000 in a suit for damages filed in common pleas court against the Cincinnati Traction company. The girl charges she was squeezed by a conductor when forced to ride on the crowded rear platform of a city streetcar.

Head of Greek Delegation in the League of Nations.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Found Guilty of Bigamy.

Cleveland, Oct. 10.—George Brown, charged with bigamy and found guilty by a jury, on the witness stand denied his first marriage in 1919 to Elizabeth Lee Fort. After his conviction he admitted the marriage to the judge. He later married Florence Jarrett. He was sentenced to three years in the Ohio penitentiary. "I would have sentenced you to only two years, but I added a year because you lied under oath," the judge said.

Fewer Births in Ohio.

Columbus, Oct. 10.—The federal census bureau announces that the birth rate in Ohio for the first quarter of this year was 20.9 per 1,000 of population as against 21.3 for the same period last year. The death rate was 15.6 for each 1,000 population during the first three months this year as against 13.8 for the same months last year. The death rate, also, was much higher than 10.5, the adjusted rate for all of 1922.

Incendiary Blaze Fatal.

Ashtabula, O., Oct. 10.—Police here are searching for a firebug, who they claim set fire to the home of John Hill, causing the death of Mrs. Nellie Withall, 64. Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Howard, who also lived in the Hill home, were seriously burned. The burning of the Hill home, the setting fire to two others and a holdup in the past few days, are all laid to the firebug.

Women Face Murder Charges.

Cleveland, Oct. 10.—Two negro women are held here on charges of first degree murder. Mrs. Bessie Ferguson, 35, is charged with having killed William Ferguson, 28, her husband, with an ax, "because she loved him." Genevieve Wallace, 24, stabbed Henry Goss, 25, to death. Jealousy is said to have been her motive.

Jail Delivery Blocked.

Chillicothe, O., Oct. 10.—A jail delivery here was frustrated by Sheriff Donald Swepston. The prisoners had sawed through the bars in the bull pen and had removed two bars in the window in the outer corridor, leaving one bar between them and freedom, when they were discovered by Sheriff Swepston.

Pushing Recall Election.

Cleveland, Oct. 10.—Charles H. Hubbell, political foe of Mayor Kohler, is going ahead with his proposed recall election against the mayor despite the fact that it could not be held until almost two weeks before Kohler's term would expire and would cost $50,000.

Cars in Collision.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 10.—Four persons are in hospitals with injuries received when two interurban cars came together during a fog. An East Youngstown car carrying steel mill employees to work crashed into the rear end of a New Castle limited as it stopped to take on passengers.

Streetcar Hits Steam Shovel.

Toledo, Oct. 10.—Eight persons were injured, two badly, and a streetcar damaged, when it crashed into a steam shovel here. The excavating machine, weighing 37 tons, was being moved when the streetcar plunged into it.

Bad Teeth Blamed.

Paris, Oct. 10.—Professor J. Mendel of the Pasteur institute told the Academy of Medicine that the propagation of tuberculosis is largely aided by hollow and badly cared for teeth. He declared that the law ought to forbid anyone who has bad teeth from kissing children, who are especially subject to the reception of Koch microbes, owing to the delicate formation of their gums.

LABOR AGAINST THIRD PARTY

Federation Defeats Resolution Urging Political Action.

NO RECOGNITION OF SOVIETS

Resolution Calling For This Action Is Rejected by Decisive Vote—Adjusted Compensation For World War Veterans Finds Favor Among the Delegates—Ku Klux Klan Denounced by the Convention.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 10.—There were two battles royal on the floor of the convention of the American Federation of Labor, and in both the administration won the victories. In the first battle the four resolutions favoring independent political action through the formation of a third political party of workers, backed by the federation, was voted down. The vote was 2,566 to 1,895, with delegates representing 1,618 ballots either absent or not voting. The second fight was over the question of the recognition of soviet Russia and the recommendation of the resolutions committee to nonconcur in the resolution was adopted by a decisive vote. In connection with this resolution, the administration ran into a snag, and there was spirited debate. While primarily the resolution was favored by the reds and bolsheviks in the labor movement and in the federation, it was backed also by labor leaders who are known to be conservatives.

The resolution introduced by William Short, president of the Washington State Federation of Labor, asking congress to institute and adopt a federal amendment providing for the popular election of judges, was adopted.

The federation recorded its support of adjusted compensation for world war veterans and denounced the Ku Klux Klan.

With the American Legion meeting in San Francisco, with a representative of the legion scheduled to speak before the labor convention today, and with President Samuel Gompers scheduled to address the legion convention next week, the action on adjusted compensation still further cements the friendship that has been developing between these two great organizations.

EYES ON GERMANY

Russian Reds Watching Developments With Glad Anticipation.

Berlin, Oct. 10.—Russian Bolshevik leaders are watching developments in Germany with glad anticipation. Both Trotsky and a sister of the sick premier, Lenin, have sent congratulations to the Rote Fahne, communist newspaper, on its reappearance after being suppressed for a week.

Ulanoff, Lenin's sister, writes: "Now comes the hour of decisive battles. The Rote Fahne has always been the best organizing force for the revolutionary movement in Germany."

Trotsky writes: "Madness and chaos reign in Europe. Three southern peninsulas are officially in the hands of the fascists. French militarism aims to strangle the German nation. But when one sees a new number of the Rote Fahne one feels that the German public are represented and are alive and able to find the way to the future."

NEW RULING ON DRY LAW

"Belief" of Violation Sufficient to Obtain Affidavit.

Columbus, Oct. 10.—According to a ruling by the Ohio supreme court one needs only to "believe" another person is violating a prohibition law to get an affidavit. Actual knowledge of fact is not necessary to secure a raid on a person's premises, the decision holds. The marshal of Milford, O., told the mayor he "believed," but had no certain knowledge, that William Abt was violating the dry laws. The marshal then made an affidavit to that effect, but gave no positive reasons for his suspicion. A search and arrest of Abt followed.

Abt was fined $1,000. He appealed to common pleas court that the affidavit was faulty. Common pleas court reversed and found for Abt. The state won in court of appeals. Abt then appealed to the supreme court.

Find Whisky in River.

Gallipolis, O., Oct. 10.—While hunting for coal in the Ohio river at Kanawha bar, river men found four cases of old bonded whisky. How it got there is a mystery.

ATTACKS EIGHT HOUR DAY

Stinnes, Industrial "Kaiser" of Germany, Opens Campaign.

Berlin, Oct. 10.—Hugo Stinnes, often called the "industrial kaiser," opened a strong barrage on the eight-hour work day in Germany. Stinnes and his industrial allies launched a drive to extricate their industrialists from the near wreck of the German state and to recapture their former important place in the world trade. In effect, Stinnes declares in an ultimatum to the government, signed by himself and five industrial allies, that this object can only be accomplished upon the basis of longer working hours for labor in Germany, which the present laws forbid. He and his associates have served notice on the mine workers of the Ruhr that working hours will be lengthened to eight and one-half hours underground and 10 hours above ground. The ultimatum, which contains 10 points, is being ignored thus far by Chancellor Stresemann.

Secretary Hughes Speaks.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 10.—Peace among the nations depends upon the influence of reasonable men, Secretary of State Hughes asserted here in an address at a dinner given to President Angell of Yale university. Mr. Hughes emphasized the duty of America to continue to provide the opportunities of liberal education for the average man. "What the country needs," he said, "is not more information, but better judgment; not more bulletins, but more accuracy of statement and a better assimilation."

SERIES OPENS TODAY

New York Giants and Yankees Engaged at the latter's Stadium.

New York, Oct. 10.—Everything is ready for the opening of the world series between the New York Giants and Yankees here this afternoon. The series will continue until one club wins four games. Today's contest will be staged in the Yankee stadium. Betting continues brisk with the Yanks still prevailing as slight favorites over the Giants.

"Twice the Yanks have been favorites in the series and twice they did not win," was the comment of John McGraw, manager of the Giants.

"They can't beat us three in a row," Babe Ruth, Yankee star, said.

Great quantities of tickets have fallen into the hands of scalpers, who are asking double the face value. Officials of the Giants and Yanks said they figured that the speculators would be caught with a lot of them and would lose on their venture.

Papyrus Has Tryout.

New York, Oct. 10.—In a "slowish gallop" as Basil Jarvis, trainer, termed it, Papyrus, England's best in horseflesh, went a mile and a quarter for the benefit of some 500 race enthusiasts, at Belmont park, in preparation for his race with Zev for the world's title and $100,000, Oct. 20. He went the distance in 2:16 2-5.

Trotter Lowers World's Record.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 10.—Mr. McElwyn, owned by W. H. L. McCurtie of Dallas, Tex., driven by Ben White, lowered the world's record for two-year-old trotters to 2:04 against time at the grand circuit meet here. The Real Lady held the former record of 2:04 1/4, made at Lexington in 1916.

New Egyptian Print and a Bag to Match

This is one of the many winsome new Egyptian prints. The Egyptian influence also will be noted on the bag.

Styles in Headgear Include Floral Trim

Each week now in Paris brings its full quota of new spring bonnets.

Generally speaking, preference for floral trim is given to flat, many-petaled silk flowers suitable for applique, although novelties in kid, in wool velours, in metal and in stiff lacquered silks are in the market.

In ribbons, everything from the narrowest shoe string type to ribbon in eight or twelve-inch widths is in vogue in plain weaves, in fancy weaves, in changeable effects, and embroidered, printed or scalloped.

Trimmings for the most part meander along at their own sweet will at the front, and the back, at the sides, under the brim, at the top of the brim, at the base or at the top of the crown, according to the shape of the hat and the caprice of the milliner.

Brimms for the most part are very irregular in line this season, and are cut, slashed, notched, rolled or drooped sometimes wide at front and short at the back, and sometimes the reverse; namely, wide at the back and short across the front and sides. The basic principle of construction is, however, for a line short at the back and wide at the front.

Crowns still show a surprising determination to rise to untold—in any case to unbecoming—heights; but hand in hand with these new high-crowned shapes are shapes with soft, supple, squatty sectional crowns just deep enough to take care of the top of the head.

In colors, bright emerald green, soft shades of dull blue Persian greens and bright gentian blue make their bow as the latest novelty shades, while black, shell and blond, alone and in combination, still represent the popular demand. Black hats with a multi-colored trim and hats in a two-tone combination—a light and a dark shade of the same color—are both conspicuous.

There is still a pronounced feeling for metal used for brim facings or for metal used on straw or fabric hats.—Paris Letter to the Dry Goods Economist.

Paris Women Wear Two Kinds of Suits

Two kinds of suits are worn in Paris at the present time, morning suits, for walking on the Bois de Boulogne, and afternoon suits, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. The former have the short English coat with a vest, while the afternoon suit is occasionally ornamented with embroidery or bands of fur and usually is accompanied by a blouse which hangs loosely from the shoulders.

The three-piece suit takes two forms, being either quite simple or very dressy. This is frequently worn to replace the tailored suit or the afternoon dress. Short capes are attached to the jackets of some of these suits.

As to colors, a Persian blue unique in tone is a background for yellow, blond, rosewood, beige and brown, all of which colors are returning in profusion. Black has disappeared.

The pendulum of fashion, having swung away from black, now swings to very bright shades of green, such as jade and emerald. All the green tones are extremely popular at the present time. Water green in particular is considered very smart as is the shade known as bottle-green. Not only is this color seen in fabrics but in jewelry and trimmings. The newest girdles worn on both afternoon and evening dresses are studded with imitation emeralds or with jade.

Taffeta and Lace.

Black lace makes an effective trimming for a frock of green taffeta. It is cut on very old-fashioned lines with a full, long bouffant skirt, and has a shoulder drapery of the lace which fastens in the front with a corsage bouquet.

Shaded Effects.

The use of chiffon in layers is a practice that is gaining in popularity. Sometimes half a dozen different tones are used to get the desired effect. Rose shading into delicate pink, or purple that blends into lavender or orchid are much liked.

Miss Annette Smith Groce Becomes the Bride of Charles Clark Will.

The marriage of Mr. Charles Clark Will and Miss Annette Smith Groce, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Groce was solemnized Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Mr. Logee, pastor of the church officiated, using the beautiful ring service. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her dress was white moire silk with a court train, trimmed in rosettes of georgette crepe. The veil, caught with orange blossoms, hung long from a coronet of pearls. Her bouquet was white and pink roses, maidenhair fern, caught with a bow of white tulle ribbon. "She was fair to look upon," for besides all the charms of youth, which are hers, Mrs. Will has a brilliant intellect. Altho very early in her twenties, she is a graduate of the Columbus School for Girls and Vassar college, and has had a very successful year in teaching at her alma mater. Miss Madeline Buzzell was bridesmaid. Her gown was yellow charmeuse; she carried Haron Ward roses. Little Ann and Ellen Bennett, nieces of the bride, in pale green and yellow dresses were flower girls. They carried big hat baskets filled with pink roses and showed their happiness in serving on such an occasion.

The church was artistically decorated with autumn flowers, and an organ concert by Miss Abbe Mills Clark and Miss Bronson just before the arrival of the bridal party, added to the sweet solemnity of the wedding ceremony. Mr. John Goeller was the groom's best man and Messrs. Meek Parrett, William Downs, Foster Weldon, and Harry Meffner were ushers.

In the large reception which followed at the home, there were those, who, in the spacious rooms, felt echoes of the times, when, on some such occasion Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Renick, an aunt of Mrs. Groce, stood there, beaming hospitality upon them. And just across the street, was another home where Mr. and Mrs. John Groce so often welcomed their host of friends. Around these two houses is woven much of the history of the social life of Circleville. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Groce have inherited the gracious tendency of their forbears and society finds their doors ever open with a cordial welcome. The house was decorated in fall flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Groce, Mr. Will and Miss Will made up the receiving line. Mrs. Groce wore black chiffon velvet. Miss Will blue georgette. Mrs. Frank Bennett and Mrs. Donald Smith, sisters of the bride were assisting hostesses. Mrs. Bennett's gown was a bronze colored cut velvet; Mrs. Smith's brown charmeuse with lace trimmings.

In the center of the bride's table was a great bride's cake ornamented with flowers. A small metallic basket of flowers, very artistic hung on each tumbler. These baskets came from Paris and were a present to the bride from her aunt, Mrs. Josiah Smith. Around the bride were all the young people of the party and the scene was a picture—a vision of youth. There were many beautiful presents. Mrs. Harry Lawson, of Shelbyville, Indiana, who was Miss Miss Nellie Boggs, and Mrs. Frank Dudley Smith of Muskegon, nee Miss Florene Hoffman, came home for the wedding, to again attend one of those Groce family get-togethers, which so happily featured their childhood days.

Other guests from out of town were Misses Elizabeth Gilbert, of Little Falls, New York; Geraldine Bronson and Susan Brown, Yonkers, New York; Madeline Buzzell of East Orange, New Jersey; Frances Rudy, Paris, Illinois; Katharine Peters, New York; Elizabeth Allen, of Burlington, Vermont; Mary Pope, Detroit, Michigan; Miss Daniels, Miss Cavers and Miss Margaret Williams, Columbus; Mr. Harry Lawson, Shelbyville, Indiana; Mr. Donald Smith, Toledo; Mrs. Kelton, Misses Louise and Grace Kelton, Miss Lattimer, Columbus.

The bride's traveling dress was a blue poret twill with shoes and hat to match. The happy pair left amidst a shower or rice and rose leaves for a short trip. On their return they will take up their abode in the home of Mrs. Krimmel, who contemplating a winter in California, has rented her apartment for the season. The bride is one of Circleville's most charming debutantes and the groom a most popular young banker. They have the happy wishes of the community.

MRS. W. E. BAER DEAD.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Baer, 51, wife of William E. Baer, 699 McAllister avenue, Columbus, died from complications Monday afternoon. Besides her husband surviving are three sons, John S., William E. and Austin B. Baer, all of Columbus; five daughters Mrs. James W. Skeen, Mrs. William H. Hawk, Mrs. F. S. Baird and Misses Vesta and Velma Baer at home; a grandchild, three brothers and three sisters.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday in the chapel of Denton, Donaldson & Hughes, undertakers. Burial will be in Union cemetery.

The husband of the deceased is a son of John S. Baer of this city and the family formerly lived here. Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Wilson and daughter, Arthur Wilson and George Brown will attend the funeral.

GOOD ADVICE.

All that Circleville needs to start an industrial revival is for its citizens to forget self and join hands in a whole hearted movement in bolstering up industry.

If each person will forget petty personal jealousy, stop knocking and begin to boost in an effective manner the city can easily double its population in five years at the same time doubling the value of every foot of property in the city. Boost, don't knock.

AMUSEMENTS

How many elements of characterization are necessary to a successful motion picture? In William de Mille's Paramount production of "Grumpy," which comes to the Met theater next Monday every essential is made use of. The cast carries on the story in a most pleasing fashion.

"Grumpy" for example, played by Theodore Roberts, one of the featured players, is a lovable, peculiar old character whose keen brain and quick wit saves every situation and who approves heartily of

Conrad Nagel, who enacts the role of Ernest Heron, a featured part, a clean-cut, pleasing young man who is entrusted with the $500,000 diamond. Ernest is in love with

May McAvoy (featured with Roberts and Nagel in her role of Virginia Bullivant, daughter of "Grumpy") May is sweet and winsome at the age when romance rules her woman's heart. She is, therefore, divided between Ernest and

Jarvis (played by Casson Ferguson) who is at heart a villain and seeks to marry Virginia for her money. Jarvis attempts to get the diamond, in fact, does get it and tries to sell it.

Wolfe, one of England's worst fence for buying stolen jewels (played by Charles French. But Wolfe stays off.

Other characters in the story who lend to the mystery, to the comedy, the romance, thrills and the general plot are Susan, the maid played by Bernice Frank and the parts of Kebble Duddock and Dawson, played respectively by Bertram Johns, Charles Ogle and Robert Bolder.

WEATHER SIGNS IN THE SKY

Thought by Some Country People to Be Superior to Weather Bureau Forecasts.

Signs of fair or foul weather are noted very carefully by country people. Some of them are more inclined to believe in old sayings about the weather than in any readings from barometers or the predictions of weather prophets. Here are a few old sayings:

Evening red and next morning gray are certain signs of a beautiful day.

If the cock goes crowing to bed he'll certainly rise with a watery head.

When black snails cross your path black clouds much moisture hath.

When rooks fly sporting high in air it shows that windy storms are near.

When the peacock loudly bawls soon we'll have both rain and squalls.

If the moon shows like a silver shield be not afraid to reap your field. But if she rises haloed round soon we'll tread on deluged ground.

A rainbow in the morning gives the shepherd warning; that is, if the wind be easterly, because it shows that the rain cloud is approaching the observer.

A rainbow at night is the shepherd's delight; that is, if the wind be westerly, as it shows that the rain clouds are passing away.

If at sunrise or setting the clouds appear of a lurid red color, extending nearly up to the zenith, it is a sure sign of storms and gales of wind.

When you see gossamer flying be ye sure the air is drying.

If the fog lies close to the surface of the ground until it is gradually dissipated by the sun, the day will be bright and fine.—London Tit-Bits.

FISH THAT WARN OF DANGER

Mullet Travel in Armies and Take Precautionary Measures to Protect Themselves.

Fish that give warning to each other on the approach of danger are to be found in the waters of the Pacific. These fish are a specimen of mullet. Because of the precautionary measures they adopt to protect themselves they are often called "alarmling" fish.

Unlike many other fish these creatures do not care for swimming about alone. More often they move in armies of upwards of 100,000. Besides appointing a number of their companions as officers, others form themselves in a van and rearguard, and a few act as scouts.

So complete is their system of defense that it is almost impossible to take them by surprise. As each army is provided with scouts above and below, they issue warning on the least approach of danger. First the scouts communicate the news to the officers who then act on their initiative and try to lead the whole army out of danger.

An instance is recorded where a party of fishermen were once setting their nets in the hope of a big catch when an army of "alarmling" fish came along. Quite by accident, one of the men fell out of the boat in pulling in the boat sails.

Naturally he struggled until rescued, but his efforts had so alarmed the fish scouts that for weeks fishing in that quarter proved entirely futile.

It appeared that not only had the army of "alarmling" fish moved into another quarter, but they had warned every other friendly species they met during their flight.

All His Worldly Goods.

It was at a fashionable wedding. The bridegroom had no visible means of support save his father, who was rich.

When he came to the stage of the service where he had to repeat, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," his father said in a whisper that could be heard all over the church: "Heavens! There goes his bicycle!"

OWES IT TO GRATITUDE.

You ought to do something for that cold.

What. After the way it has treated me?

Force of Circumstances.

"How did you happen to go into politics?"

"I wanted to serve my country," replied Senator Sorghum; "and, besides, there didn't happen at that time to be any regular line of business in which I had sufficient experience to be in demand."

An Exacting Fit.

"Brown is marrying again, I hear," "So they say, and from all accounts his second wife will make rather a lively stepmother for the children!" "Oh, a sort of watch-your-step-mother, I suppose."—Wayside Tales.

Inherent Possibilities.

Customer—I like that umbrella stand, but I don't think it is worth $5. Salesman—Why, madam, the very first umbrella that is left in it may be worth more than that.—Boston Evening Transcript.

FEW FACTS ABOUT RADIUM

Throws Off Sufficient Heat to Bring Its Own Weight of Water to Boiling Point.

Just about this time twenty-five years ago M. and Mme. Curie were making the experiments which resulted in the discovery of radium.

While our knowledge of the why and wherefore of radium has not materially increased since M. and Mme. Curie announced their momentous discovery, we have learned, more particularly during the last year or two, a good deal of its vagaries and its possibilities in certain branches of medical research. Its potentialities as a whole, however, are still largely a matter of speculation.

Few people have seen radium, and perhaps fewer still recognize it at sight. A tube of radium comprises a piece of talc, behind which is fixed a tiny screen. In front is a magnifying glass, through which may be seen, on the talc, what looks like an infinitesimal yellow stain, not much bigger than the full stop at the end of this sentence. This little speck is radium, and it may be worth anything up to $50,000.

At night the little yellow stain is seen to glow brightly enough to be noticeable yards away. But, although the phenomenon reminds one of phosphorescence, it is very different in character. Phosphorescence is impermanent, whereas the radiation from radium may continue unimpaired for years, and possibly centuries.

Radium throws off sufficient heat to bring its own weight of water to boiling point every hour for a thousand years and more. Its emission of heat can neither be increased nor diminished. It has been tested in extremes of temperature, ranging from liquid air to super-heated braziers, without affecting its radiations in the slightest degree.

These are facts which, while not known to most people, have lately been ascertained by scientists, who are now busily engaged in trying to find a way of harnessing the apparently inexhaustible energy of radium.

Probably in ten years' time we shall not know much more than we do now of the reason why radium possesses these astonishing qualities, but it is more than likely that we shall have found a way of adapting them to our needs.

This Prisoner Was Fastidious.

Recently a prisoner was sent to the county jail, after having faced the county court and been duly given a fine of $10 and a sentence of 30 days in the local bastille on a charge of being drunk in a public place.

Taken to his new boarding house, this man immediately began to complain of his surroundings, and very promptly informed Jailer J. L. Jenkins that he would not eat the bacon, beans, potatoes, and such other food as is commonly served to those who find themselves for the time being forced to be Mr. Jenkins' guests, but that he wanted and must have fried chicken.

Mr. Jenkins, always ready to do everything in his power for a guest, gravely informed the complainant that sometimes they had fried chicken for the prisoners and that if he would only remain long enough he would be sure to get what he wanted along that line.

Mr. Jenkins expects that soon the prisoners will be asking for felt mattresses, ice cream, cold drinks and electric fans.—Greenville (Mo.) Leader.

Hunt for Animal Prowlers.

Did you know that Uncle Sam maintains a standing army of big game hunters whose duty it is to protect the live stock of the country by killing off predatory animals?

This army is under the direction of the United States biological survey. Last year they shot, poisoned or trapped more than 80,000 wild animals in stock-raising sections. In seven years their rifles have brought down more than 380,000 stock-killing beasts, and they are credited with saving $35,000,000 worth of domestic live stock.

A veteran of this service is Ben V. Lily, of New Mexico, who is seventy years old and has been a big game hunter for 60 years. Lily has killed more than 500 mountain lions, and official estimates show that his campaigns against wild animals have saved stockmen in the West many thousands of dollars annually for years.—Popular Science Monthly.

As We Progress.

It was in the year 1925. A New York matron, coming down to breakfast, met her only son ascending the stairs. He was headed for the roof, where his fast airplane awaited him.

"Where to, Tommy?" asked the matron.

"Denver for lunch, mother."

"Well, you have a perfect day for flying."

"That is what I thought. So from Denver I may hop off to San Francisco for a little golf."

"Very well, my son. But be home early for dinner."

Circumstantial Evidence.

Bobby—I've been a very good boy since I started going to Sunday school, haven't I?

Mother—Yes, dear, you've been very good, indeed.

Bobby—And you don't distrust me any more, do you?

Mother—No, dear.

Bobby—Then why do you hide the jam?—London Tit-Bits.

What will the airship of the future be?

Rear Admiral William A. Moffet, chief of the bureau of aeronautics United States navy, ventures an amazing prediction regarding the aviation of tomorrow in Popular Science Monthly, describing a dirigible as large as the Leviathan, capable of sailing around the world in a couple of days, manned by a regiment of men and carrying airplanes as ocean steamships now carry lifeboats, so that passengers may be sent off to wayside destinations.

Ships of the sea have built empires. he writes, altered the destinies of nations, and exerted a profound influence on history through uncounted centuries. With the dawn of the Twentieth century, ships of the air have come as a new challenger of time and space, and their influence upon the trend of world events is today one of the most potent factors in world progress and development.

To Circle the Globe.

Yesterday we crossed an ocean, to day a continent; tomorrow we circle the globe. New routes for commerce open p by way of the polar air routes. London and Tokyo are drawn together as by magic, and man, creeping on the earth, looks to the sky and reads there the story of a new era.

It requires no great tax on the imagination to picture some of the developments of air transportation which we may expect to see even in our brief span.

Consider a ship of 5,000,000 cubic feet. Such ships are now being planned abroad. They would equal the size of the Leviathan, with a length of 900 feet and more and a diameter greater than the beam of that great vessel. They will carry a weight in fuel and other useful loading of more than 60 tons and could cruise half way around the earth without a stop. Airplanes could be carried on them as are lifeboats on ocean-going vessels. These planes could land on a deck on top of the airship and be launched from it, carrying passengers for wayside destinations. They could be designed to carry a regiment of troops, and a fleet of them could transport an army to the ends of the earth, in time that could be reckoned in hours.

To Carry Dozen Planes.

Airplanes have already been carried by airships, launched from them, picked up by them. It is well within the bounds of reason to predict that the naval airship of the future will carry a dozen planes that will be capable of defending her against air attack, and in addition will mount a battery of guns that will command the respect of any enemy marauder. This country was among the first to investigate the possibility of airplanes being carried by airships, and the experiment conducted with a type of airship less than one-tenth the size of those now building, proved the practicability of the scheme.

Until now one hazard in airship operation has always stalked like a specter at the heels of this development. Hydrogen-inflated ships carry with them the ever-present danger of fire. Many aerial disasters have been traceable to this.

The United States, possessing as it does the only extensive helium supply in the world, is particularly favored by nature. Helium, an inert gas, is not inflammable. It has but little less than the buoyancy of hydrogen and can be produced at a cost which, though higher than that of hydrogen, is inconsequential compared with the safety and dependability gained.

The helium airship will make this form of travel safe to a degree never before possible. It will assure low insurance rates on merchandise carried by airships.

As a basis for the future of airship development in this country the navy in constructing the ZR-1 is building wisely and well. This craft, the first rigid airship ever built in the United States, has just been completed at Lakehurst, N. J. It is as large as ocean-going steamers, and 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas will be required to inflate it. But withal it is mediocre in size and inferior in performance to similar ships that may be expected to follow.

In the development of aviation America should be in a position to point the way to the world.

OIL FOUND IN ARGENTINA

Rich Deposits of Petroleum in Province of Juju.

What are apparently rich deposits of petroleum have been found in the province of Juju, Argentina.

Borings made under the direction of the administration of state railways resulted in striking oil at a depth of 530 meters. A column of oil ascended the tube for a distance of 150 meters, from which two tons were pumped in three hours. Work was then suspended to await the erecting of storage tanks.

Engineers are confident that borings 30 meters deeper will tap an extensive petroleum strata. The oil is said to be of high quality.

DEATH OF DR. BRAGDON.

Rev. Charles Arthur Bragdon, S. T. D., who was rector of St. Philip's Episcopal church, Circleville in 1878, died at his home near Grandview, Washington, on September 4, at the age of 74 years.

Dr. Bragdon was born at Canton, St. Lawrence county, New York, July 11, 1849. He graduated from Hobart college in 1873, and from the General Theological seminary, New York, in 1876. After serving for about a year as rector of St. Philip's he was for eight years in the diocese of Albany, followed by thirteen years in the diocese of Buffalo, for five years of which he was arch deacon of the diocese. He next served six years as arch deacon of the diocese of Pittsburgh and for the next eight years was rector of St. Matthew's church, Homestead, Pennsylvania.

In 1911 Dr. Bragdon bought a tract of apple land near Grandview, Washington and while developing this, did missionary work but continued to aid the bishop and neighboring clergy as opportunity and time allowed.

While serving as rector of St. Philip's Dr. Bragdon married Clara Louise, daughter of the late Alfred Williams. He is survived by his widow, a son, Arthur Bragdon and a daughter, Miss Louise Bragdon.

The great industry James J. Hinde built at Sandusky and other cities, prospered because of liberal wages.

Hard Spring Wheat Resistant to Stem Rust

Variety Known as Kota Has Been Developed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A hard red spring wheat that is resistant to the principal forms of black stem rust has been developed in North Dakota by the United States Department of Agriculture and the North Dakota agricultural experiment station. This wheat was first introduced from Russia in 1903 by Prof. H. L. Bolley, and is now known as Kota. About 6,000 acres of Kota wheat were grown in 1922, and much more this year.

The particular virtue of Kota wheat is its resistance to the black stem rust which is general throughout the hard red spring wheat region. Its rust resistance was not determined until after the great rust epidemic of 1916. It is also fairly resistant to drought and outyields Marquis in North Dakota, averaging nearly three bushels more per acre during the past five years. It is a bearded wheat which ripens about as early as Marquis. In milling and baking experiments conducted independently by the Department of Agriculture and the North Dakota experiment station, Kota wheat has shown results nearly equal to those obtained with Marquis.

Experiments with Kota wheat have been carried on in a number of other states as well as in North Dakota, and the wheat was found best adapted to the district where durum wheat is extensively grown. Kota wheat could replace much of the durum wheat now grown in eastern North Dakota and South Dakota with profit to both the hard red spring and the durum wheat industries, department workers believe. This variety is recommended for North Dakota and adjacent portions of neighboring states.

Origin of Pledge.

Penny, pawn, panel, pane all are derived from the same root, and all mean a pledge. The readiest pledge to leave in pawn in days of old was cloth, hence the Latin "panna," a piece of cloth, or patch, and from this we get the word "pane" as applied to a pane of glass, and also the word "penny." Its literal meaning being a pledge or token, and hence a coin. Originally the word was spelt "peny."

Every Dairyman Should Know Profitable Cows

"Every owner of dairy cows should know if his cows are giving enough milk or butterfat to make a profit over the cost of feed," says A. C. Baer, professor of dairying at Oklahoma A. and M. college. "A scale to weigh the milk in the barn can be bought for $4. It takes only a few minutes a day extra time to weigh the milk from each cow and write the weight on a milk sheet tacked up in the barn. Once a month a sample of milk can be tested. Any creamery, ice cream factory, or cream station will usually be glad to do this testing. Every school house can be equipped with a tester at very little expense and the boys at school can do the testing."

"A profitable cow should produce 6,000 pounds of milk or 200 pounds of butterfat in 300 days. Are your cows all profitable? Why not find out? Is milking dairy cows a business proposition with you? If so, why not apply business methods? Write the dairy department, Oklahoma A. and M. college for information."

Soy Beans and Corn Are Well Balanced Hog Feed

Some ask why soy beans and corn make economical gains on swine. The reason is that they are a well-balanced ration, soy beans showing a high analysis in the nutrients in which corn is deficient. For example, soy beans have more than four times as much digestible crude protein as corn, while corn has more than 2½ times as much digestible carbohydrates as soy beans. In other words, one of these feeds is strong where the other is weak and vice versa.

Culling Should Not Be Done at Certain Times

Culling is a constant work in the poultry yard. It should not be relegated to certain periods of the year; it takes too long to stop the appetites of the surplus cockerel and the culls. The fellow who waits until fall to sell the culls is going to lose money two ways—in the extra feed he has fed, and in the lower price paid, due to glutted market. Besides, fowls sold for table use at the right time always bring better prices than those which have been held so long that the flesh is tough.

Immense Loss Caused by Insect Attacks on Trees

Foresters and entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture declare that the losses caused by insect attacks upon living trees and crude, finished, and utilized forest products amount to $130,000,000 annually. A recent report touching upon this and other forestry subjects declares that these vast losses clearly emphasize the need for educational work and the development of systematic control measures which now are woefully inadequate.

Not Difficult Matter to Produce Good Chickens

There isn't any mystery in the poultry business. The essentials of it can be summed up in a few phrases: Breed 'em, feed 'em, keep 'em clean, and don't crowd 'em.

Of course, you can write books about breeds and feeds, sanitation and shelter. But it's all just common sense.

Farm chickens, which have plenty of range, are practically no trouble after they get three weeks old. They balance their own rations, and look after themselves in the summer time.

Naboth's Vineyard.
Naboth's vineyard was a vineyard in Jezreel, greatly coveted by Ahab, king of Israel. Naboth, the owner, declined, however, either to sell the vineyard to the king or exchange it for another, and was, in consequence, cruelly murdered on a false charge of blasphemy, trumped up by the infamous queen, Jezebel. Ahab thereupon took immediate possession of the vineyard, but was met by the prophet Elijah, who denounced the wickedness of the king and queen and foretold the awful doom that awaited Jezebel and her children. The phrase "Naboth's vineyard" is sometimes used to denote any possession greatly coveted by others.

NINE O'CLOCK GIRL

By JULIE DRISKO
(©, 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I SPOSE I might call Nicky," sighed Aileen, fretfully, "but I don't get a bit of a kick out of it. 'Oh, dear, nurse, can't I sit up tomorrow?'"
"I think so, dear, and I hope so, but just now you must think of sleep."
"But I'm not sleepy. Oh, I'll call Nicky for a minute and give him a thrill. It was dear of him to send the jonquils."

Turning to her bedside 'phone, Aileen called the fraternity number, and when a deep voice answered it was Aileen, after all, who received the thrill.
"Oh, nurse," in an aside of wild excitement, "I do believe it's that wonderful Jackie Ryan, the baseball coach. I—I'm going to give him a line. Don't tell on me, will you?"
"Yes, is this Jack Ryan?" cooed Aileen.
"Ye-es?" came the questioning reply.
"And how are you this fine evening, Mr. Ryan?" Aileen laughed.
"But who is this?" Jack laughed back.

Just then the heavy, solemn boom of the great-grandfather clock in the hall could be heard tolling the hour.
"Hear that?" queried Aileen.
"Yes, and listen"—and a more modern affair in the fraternity house clearly struck nine bell-like notes.
"Well, good-night, then," Aileen sighed, "for I am the Nine o'Clock Girl."

In the days that followed Nicky forgot to eat, and in the nights that followed the days he found it impossible to sleep. Aileen was using him frightfully. She had sent him only one little note in four days and he had been allowed but a very few minutes by her chair in the warm sun of the late spring afternoon before, where she convalesced in youthful glory.

Aileen had captured Nicky's fraternity pin and double pneumonia on the same night not three weeks since, by sitting out four dances in a flood of moonlight on a draughty window seat, respectively.

Now Nicky knew that, though pneumonia had changed this girl of his a bit in weight and color, only to make her frailer and fairer, he couldn't understand what had so changed her heart to make her love him more lightly.

Aileen, however, ate hungrily of days and dreamed romantically of nights. She had had another nine o'clock talk with Jack and had sent him a note, a whimsical little note of mystery and spring. Aileen was weaving love dreams.

Jack Ryan had laughed when the telephone had clicked on the "Nine o'Clock Girl" the first time, the second time he had brazenly asked Central what number had called.

"Some line she's handlin' you, I'll say," said the inquisitive Central, "it's 448 that called."

And Jack had looked it up.
"Look here, Nicky, you aren't eating well these days, and you need your strength, man. We'll be out on the diamond in a day or two, now. Anything wrong?"

"Not a thing, Jack, thanks. Just hopin' for that outdoor work to start," said Nicky bravely, but he hadn't fooled his coach.

"Oh—oh, how wonderful!" Aileen clasped her hand in ecstasy. She was sitting in the big chair in the sun parlor, where the moon was casting a golden splendor over the flower baskets filled with the glorious radiance of spring-loving jonquils.

The sharp peal of the doorbell stopped the nurse in her attempt to draw the convalescent upstairs to bed.
"Well, then, just for a moment, if it's really necessary," Aileen heard the nurse say, and then—in walked the hero of her dreams, the coach.

"It's almost nine o'clock," he began, "and I didn't want to spoil our happy little play by coming at any other hour." Aileen sat breathless while he continued: "You know I think you are a dear, and I was glad to learn of your engagement to my best pal, Nicky Barry."

"My wife and the kids and I all love Nicky. He's the best man on the team, and I'm rather set up to think his girl would pick me out to have a little spring fun with, only," and here he took Aileen's hand and looked so very serious that Aileen almost had a relapse, "only," he continued, "you can't think how it hurt me to think you'd write me such a corking little note and then call me a 'couch' in it."

So jolly was the laugh that followed that Aileen found herself enjoying it quite as much as Jack. Solemnly sounded the warning notes of the great-grandfather clock in the hall.
"Good-night, little Nine o'Clock Girl."

Aileen wrote her notes to Nicky, thenceforth, because, after all, he could not spell any better than she could. And Nicky ate of days, and no doubt, snored happily of nights.

In time Aileen was next best friend to the family of the already beloved Nicky (the two little Ryans were dears), and the "couch" never told on his "Nine o'Clock Girl."

His Way.
"Who was that shabby, tiresome old party who hung around here this forenoon arguing that the world is flat and the sun moves?" asked a guest.
"Aw, that was old Hod Durnitt," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "If he comes around again keep away from him. If you interrupted him he will begin to argue for socialism."—Kansas City Star.

CITIES DOUBLE HEALTH BUDGET

Infant Welfare and School Hygiene Among Items Gaining Attention, Says Report.

Baltimore.—Cities of America are placing increasing importance on the health of the community. From 1910 to 1920 health department budgets were enlarged to a degree promising marked benefits, it is indicated in an analysis by W. Thurber Fales of the School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins university.

The average for 45 cities showed a 95 per cent increase in per capita appropriations 1910 to 1920 and an expense for health departments of 70.4 cents in 1920. The greatest increase was made by cities of 250,000 to 500,000 population, averaging 125 per cent.

Two items—infant welfare and school hygiene—indicate an awakening of the nation to the importance of giving every child a better chance for healthy development. The American Child Health association, under the presidency of Herbert Hoover, has been acting as a clearing house for child health information to enable private agencies to supplement and assist official activities.

Every City Spending More.

Every city, Mr. Fales finds, showed an increase in its health department budget. Milwaukee, with 343 per cent increase, headed the list, while Elizabeth, N. J., showed but 25 per cent, according to Mr. Fales' figures.

Health departments of 81 cities surveyed by Mr. Fales revealed per capita expenditures for all purposes except construction of or addition to buildings of 97.4 cents. Health service funds for activities dealing directly with the protection of public health aside from the cost of hospitals for communicable diseases and sanatoria, averaged 51.6 cents per capita.

Bridgeport, Conn., Yonkers and Flint, Mich., were at the top of the list in per capita expenditures solely for health service with rates of 104.9 cents, 93.9 cents and 88.2 cents.

In 72 cities child welfare and school hygiene expenditures ranked next to the more general costs of sanitary inspection, communicable disease control, food inspection and administration. Even so, the amounts spent on these services by health departments were not great, that for school hygiene being 3.9 cents per capita and for infant welfare 3.6 cents.

Figures Given for Forty Cities.

Because school health supervision is under control of the board of education in many cities, Mr. Fales doubts that these figures present a complete picture of this service. In 30 cities where budgetary provision is made to cover all school health supervision Mr. Fales found an average of 8.8 cents per capita.

Figures of the per capita expenditures for the total health service for the first 40 of 82 cities, as found by Mr. Fales, are shown below.

These amounts do not include money spent for contagious disease hospitals, sanatoria, garbage or refuse disposal.

Inmate of Poorhouse Left $23,000 in Cash

San Francisco.—A conscience legacy of more than $10,000 was left the San Francisco Relief home by Nicholas Mulvaney, ninety, an inmate of the home, as a result of the accidental discovery that he was the possessor of a fortune of $23,000 in cash. It became known recently when his will was admitted to probate. A few months before Mulvaney died an attendant at the home picked up his bank book showing the $23,000 deposit. The superintendent of the home criticized him for living on public charity, but Mulvaney begged to remain at the home, saying that he had spent the happiest years of his life there, and that he would remember it in his will. His request was granted.

Prosecutor Wants

Spanking Machine

Winnipeg.—A spanking machine which would have instruments varying from a broad paddle to a cat-o-nine tails, and so geared as to be administered with different degrees of severity, was advocated to take the place of jail sentences for first offenders under the criminal code by Crown Prosecutor R. B. Graham. Mr. Graham strongly advocated the use of some sort of a machine to take the place of corporal punishment by the human hand and said he believed such an innovation would materially reduce crime.

UNITED STATES TO HOLD ALOOF

Will Take No Part in the European Controversy.

COOLIDGE'S STAND OUTLINED

Neither the Idea of an Economic Conference Nor the Plan Offered by Secretary Hughes Will Be Pressed by the Administration—Allied Powers Must Take the Initiative in the Matter.

Washington, Oct. 10.—The United States is determined to remain aloof from the European controversy so long as the powers immediately concerned fail to manifest any willingness to accept American good offices.

This was made plain in behalf of President Coolidge at the White House following the cabinet meeting. A spokesman for the president asserted definitely that the administration was pressing neither the idea of an economic conference nor the plan offered by Secretary of State Hughes for a fact finding commission to determine Germany's ability to pay reparations.

Last week a high administration official stated positively that, as France had definitely rejected the idea of a non-partisan commission, it was idle for the American government to entertain the plan as a solution of the present controversy.

This attitude on the part of Mr. Coolidge and his advisers is not to be interpreted as indicating any abandonment of the commission plan. The scheme, as set forth by Mr. Hughes in his New Haven speech a year ago, still stands as the American government's last authoritative comment on the method to be followed in solving the European economic tangle.

OHIO MAYOR ACCUSED

Illegals and Irregularities Alleged in Assessing Dry Fees.

Columbus, Oct. 10.—In a report filed by State Examiner H. D. Deffenbacher, illegals and irregularities are cited in assessing fees and costs in prohibition prosecutions and other cases of law violation, and in distribution of fines collected under various laws, against Mayor A. W. Ferren of East Palestine, O. Ferren is charged with exacting mileage fees from violators for his own transportation between East Palestine and Salem to the extent of $70 in 19 cases, illegally; of illegally assessing and retaining fees to the amount of $1,296.64, which is now due the city, and of illegal collections totaling $398 for analysis fees and fees for assistants, which should be paid into a defendants' trust fund in the city treasury.

Findings of $1,286.60 against Chief of Police W. Warren, of $1.50 against Patrolman Ed Harvey and of $140.70 against Special Officer S. E. Conrad are also cited, consisting of fees illegally drawn.

Big Airship Christened.
Lakehurst, N. J., Oct. 10.—Shenandoah, "daughter of the stars," in the language of the Red Men, is the name of the navy's wonderful airship tested and found perfect under the name of ZR-1. A distinguished party attended the christening of the great ship here. After the big ship was christened she made an ascension. Mrs. Edwin Denby, wife of the secretary of the navy, christened the ship and released carrier pigeons, which will fly to Washington with the news of the launching.

Thieves Loot Store.
St. Paris, O., Oct. 10.—A gang of thieves in a truck backed up to the Leo Urban department store here and drove off with $7,000 worth of merchandise.

MULATTO TESTIFIES

Honor of Helen Ellwood Stokes May Hang on Photograph.

New York, Oct. 10.—On a mere photograph may hang the honor of Helen Ellwood Stokes. As she left the courtroom after the second day of the divorce trial, in which her millionaire husband, W. E. D. Stokes, seeks to prove that she is "the lowest of the low," Helen Stokes wondered about the potency of a pictured face. The photograph, taken in evening dress, purported to be the likeness of the defendant. It was introduced into the case when Nell Rose Miller, mulatto, of the stand for the prosecution, identified it as that of Mrs. Stokes. "The first I knew of this case was when I saw that picture and recognized it as the woman I had seen in Mr. Wallace's apartment when I used to serve breakfasts there," the witness said.

Nell Miller was one time a waitress in a tea shop in the same building with the quarters of Edgar Wallace, former subway official and one of the 57 correspondents in this case.

To Probe Einstein Theory.
Chicago, Oct. 10.—Einstein's theory of relativity, which has divided the scientific world, will be made the subject of the most searching investigation as yet applied to it. While stellar photographs, taken at the time of total eclipse of the sun, have been reported as partially confirming the "curved light theory" of the European scientist, its most important phase is as yet unproved. Its verification or disproval, it was revealed, hang in the balance upon the results of experiments soon to be inaugurated at the University of Chicago.

HELD STUPID BLUNDER

Failure of Allies to Accept Hughes Plan Rapped by Lloyd George.

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—The failure of the allied governments to accept the American suggestion for the creation of a commission of economic experts to determine the amount of German reparations was declared to have been "one of the most stupid blunders of history," by David Lloyd George here. The former premier declared that if he were now in power as head of the British government he would take immediate steps to bring pressure upon France and other governments to agree to such a plan in order to settle the reparations controversy. His statement attacked the position taken by Bonar Law, who succeeded him as premier, and of Poincare, the French premier, who were in conference in Paris at the time the American suggestion was made. He declared that it is not too late to make such a proposal.

SKELETONS FOUND

Estimated by Scientists to Be at Least 15,000 Years Old.

Paris, Oct. 10.—Amazing discoveries of skeletons estimated to be at least 15,000 years old have been made during excavations near the village of Solutre, near Mason, France, where many significant archaeological discoveries were previously made, according to a report to the academy of sciences by the discoverer, Charles DePeriet, famous scientist of Lyons. The skeletons were those of three young men between 25 and 30 years old, averaging six feet tall and of vigorous structure. The cranium box was high and large, though not very long. They had well developed cheek bones, low noses and long, straight inferior jaw bones, unusually high.

WALTON MAKES NEW PROPOSAL

Offers to Resign If Legislature Passes Anti-Klan Bill.

ISSUES LENGTHY STATEMENT

Members of the Oklahoma General Assembly, Most of Them Opponents of the Governor, Declare Walton's Proposal Will Not Be Accepted—Essence of the Chief Executive's Proposition.

Oklahoma City, Oct. 10.—Governor J. C. Walton has offered to resign if the legislature which meets Thursday will pass an anti-Ku Klux Klan law of his dictation.

The governor made his purpose known in a lengthy official statement. His proposed law would lay heavy penalties upon masked parties and prescribes certification of all secret society memberships with county clerks annually.

Members of the legislature, most of them opponents of the governor, indicated when they learned of the governor's proposal that it would not be accepted.

In his statement the governor said in part: "If this proposition is not accepted and the Klan members of the legislature, who are in a majority in both houses, as I am informed, undertake impeachment first and then promise to pass an anti-Ku Klux Klan law now being prepared at the headquarters of the invisible empire at Atlanta, Ga., I will have something more to say to the people of this state as to how we must proceed to protect ourselves from this organization of masked marauders, who have practical control of the judiciary and police power in the principal cities of the state."

The Skirvin hotel lobby was crowded with solons here for the special session of the legislature when Aldrich Blanke, counselor to the governor, appeared and communicated the governor's proposal. There was only a ripple of excitement.

VILLAGES MENACED BY WALLS OF FIRE

Many Square Miles of Timber Land Ablaze in Michigan.

Ontonagon, Mich., Oct. 10.—A wall of forest fire surrounded Ontonagon during the night.

Panic seized the people. Women and children tramped through the smoke-filled streets in fear. The men battled all night with the approaching flames.

Sixty square miles of timber land in this county alone are on fire. In Ontonagon every foot of fire hose has been laid and volunteers are keeping roofs wet as sparks shower from the sky.

At Greene, seven miles west of here, 12 houses have been burned. The village is threatened and the population has fled to open farming country. Refugees are housed in schools and barns.

Many logging and hunting camps and farm houses were destroyed throughout the district. Reports from Houghton said flames were nearing that place and lake summer resorts were in danger. Several cottages were destroyed at Twin Lake. Fire wardens said the forest fires threaten to be most destructive in recent years.

Golf Merger Planned.

New York, Oct. 10.—One of the principal topics for discussion at the annual meeting of the United States Golf association here in December will be the proposed merger of the national organization and the Western Golf association. If the merger is completed the new body will be known as the Golf Association of America, having general supervision over all golf matters in the United States, according to apparently reliable reports.

"Squeezed" by Conductor.

Cincinnati, Oct. 10.—Miss Ada Dugins, 18, asks for $15,000 in a suit for damages filed in common pleas court against the Cincinnati Traction company. The girl charges she was squeezed by a conductor when forced to ride on the crowded rear platform of a city streetcar.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Found Guilty of Bigamy.

Cleveland, Oct. 10.—George Brown, charged with bigamy and found guilty by a jury, on the witness stand denied his first marriage in 1919 to Elizabeth Lee Fort. After his conviction he admitted the marriage to the judge. He later married Florence Jarrett. He was sentenced to three years in the Ohio penitentiary. "I would have sentenced you to only two years, but I added a year because you lied under oath," the judge said.

Fewer Births in Ohio.

Columbus, Oct. 10.—The federal census bureau announces that the birth rate in Ohio for the first quarter of this year was 20.9 per 1,000 of population as against 21.3 for the same period last year. The death rate was 15.6 for each 1,000 population during the first three months this year as against 13.8 for the same months last year. The death rate, also, was much higher than 10.5, the adjusted rate for all of 1922.

Incendiarist Blaze Fatal.

Ashtabula, O., Oct. 10.—Police here are searching for a firebug, who they claim set fire to the home of John Hill, causing the death of Mrs. Nellie Withersall, 64. Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Howard, who also lived in the Hill home, were seriously burned. The burning of the Hill home, the setting fire to two others and a holdup in the past few days, are all laid to the firebug.

Women Face Murder Charges.

Cleveland, Oct. 10.—Two negro women are held here on charges of first degree murder. Mrs. Bessie Ferguson, 35, is charged with having killed William Ferguson, 28, her husband, with an ax, "because she loved him." Genevieve Wallace, 24, stabbed Henry Goss, 25, to death. Jealousy is said to have been her motive.

Jail Delivery Blocked.

Chillicothe, O., Oct. 10.—A jail delivery here was frustrated by Sheriff Donald Sweepston. The prisoners had sawed through the bars in the bull pen and had removed two bars in the window in the outer corridor, leaving one bar between them and freedom, when they were discovered by Sheriff Sweepston.

Pushing Recall Election.

Cleveland, Oct. 10.—Charles H. Hubbell, political foe of Mayor Kohler, is going ahead with his proposed recall election against the mayor despite the fact that it could not be held until almost two weeks before Kohler's term would expire and would cost $50,000.

Cars in Collision.

Youngstown, O., Oct. 10.—Four persons are in hospitals with injuries received when two interurban cars came together during a fog. An East Youngstown car carrying steel mill employees to work crashed into the rear end of a New Castle limited as it stopped to take on passengers.

Streetcar Hits Steam Shovel.

Toledo, Oct. 10.—Eight persons were injured, two badly, and a streetcar damaged, when it crashed into a steam shovel here. The excavating machine, weighing 37 tons, was being moved when the streetcar plunged into it.

Bad Teeth Blamed.

Paris, Oct. 10.—Professor J. Mendel of the Pasteur institute told the Academy of Medicine that the propagation of tuberculosis is largely aided by hollow and badly cared for teeth. He declared that the law ought to forbid anyone who has bad teeth from kissing children, who are especially subject to the reception of Koch microbes, owing to the delicate formation of their gums.

LABOR AGAINST THIRD PARTY

Federation Defeats Resolution Urging Political Action.

NO RECOGNITION OF SOVIETS

Resolution Calling For This Action Is Rejected by Decisive Vote—Adjusted Compensation For World War Veterans Finds Favor Among the Delegates—Ku Klux Klan Denounced by the Convention.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 10.—There were two battles royal on the floor of the convention of the American Federation of Labor, and in both the administration won the victories. In the first battle the four resolutions favoring independent political action through the formation of a third political party of workers, backed by the federation, was voted down. The vote was 2,566 to 1,895, with delegates representing 1,618 ballots either absent or not voting. The second fight was over the question of the recognition of soviet Russia and the recommendation of the resolutions committee to nonconcur in the resolution was adopted by a decisive vote. In connection with this resolution, the administration ran into a snag, and there was spirited debate. While primarily the resolution was favored by the reds and bolsheviks in the labor movement and in the federation, it was backed also by labor leaders who are known to be conservatives.

The resolution introduced by William Short, president of the Washington State Federation of Labor, asking congress to institute and adopt a federal amendment providing for the popular election of judges, was adopted.

The federation recorded its support of adjusted compensation for world war veterans and denounced the Ku Klux Klan.

With the American Legion meeting in San Francisco, with a representative of the legion scheduled to speak before the labor convention today, and with President Samuel Gompers scheduled to address the legion convention next week, the action on adjusted compensation still further cements the friendship that has been developing between these two great organizations.

EYES ON GERMANY

Russian Reds Watching Developments With Glad Anticipation.

Berlin, Oct. 10.—Russian Bolshevik leaders are watching developments in Germany with glad anticipation. Both Trotsky and a sister of the sick premier, Lenin, have sent congratulations to the Rote Fahne, communist newspaper, on its reappearance after being suppressed for a week.

Ulanoff, Lenin's sister, writes: "Now comes the hour of decisive battles. The Rote Fahne has always been the best organizing force for the revolutionary movement in Germany."

Trotsky writes: "Madness and chaos reign in Europe. Three southern peninsulas are officially in the hands of the fascists. French militarism aims to strangle the German nation. But when one sees a new number of the Rote Fahne one feels that the German public are represented and are alive and able to find the way to the future."

NEW RULING ON DRY LAW

"Belief" of Violation Sufficient to Obtain Affidavit.

Columbus, Oct. 10.—According to a ruling by the Ohio supreme court one needs only to "believe" another person is violating a prohibition law to get an affidavit. Actual knowledge of fact is not necessary to secure a raid on a person's premises, the decision holds. The marshal of Milford, O., told the mayor he "believed," but had no certain knowledge, that William Abt was violating the dry laws. The marshal then made an affidavit to that effect, but gave no positive reasons for his suspicion. A search and arrest of Abt followed.

Abt was fined $1,000. He appealed to common pleas court that the affidavit was faulty. Common pleas court reversed and found for Abt. The state won in court of appeals. Abt then appealed to the supreme court.

Find Whisky in River.

Gallipolis, O., Oct. 10.—While hunting for coal in the Ohio river at Kanawha bar, river men found four cases of old bonded whisky. How it got there is a mystery.

ATTACKS EIGHT HOUR DAY

Stinnes, Industrial "Kaiser" of Germany, Opens Campaign.

Berlin, Oct. 10.—Hugo Stinnes, often called the "industrial kaiser," opened a strong barrage on the eight-hour work day in Germany. Stinnes and his industrial allies launched a drive to extricate their industrialists from the near wreck of the German state and to recapture their former important place in the world trade. In effect, Stinnes declares in an ultimatum to the government, signed by himself and five industrial allies, that this object can only be accomplished upon the basis of longer working hours for labor in Germany, which the present laws forbid. He and his associates have served notice on the mine workers of the Ruhr that working hours will be lengthened to eight and one-half hours underground and 10 hours above ground. The ultimatum, which contains 10 points, is being ignored thus far by Chancellor Stresemann.

Secretary Hughes Speaks.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 10.—Peace among the nations depends upon the influence of reasonable men, Secretary of State Hughes asserted here in an address at a dinner given to President Angell of Yale university. Mr. Hughes emphasized the duty of America to continue to provide the opportunities of liberal education for the average man. "What the country needs," he said, "is not more information, but better judgment; not more bulletins, but more accuracy of statement and a better assimilation."

SERIES OPENS TODAY

New York Giants and Yankees Engaged at the latter's Stadium.

New York, Oct. 10.—Everything is ready for the opening of the world series between the New York Giants and Yankees here this afternoon. The series will continue until one club wins four games. Today's contest will be staged in the Yankee stadium. Betting continues brisk with the Yanks still prevailing as slight favorites over the Giants.

"Twice the Yanks have been favorites in the series and twice they did not win," was the comment of J. J. McGraw, manager of the Giants.

"They can't beat us three in a row," Babe Ruth, Yankee star, said. Great quantities of tickets have fallen into the hands of scalpers, who are asking double the face value. Officials of the Giants and Yanks said they figured that the speculators would be caught with a lot of them and would lose on their venture.

Papyrus Has Tryout.

New York, Oct. 10.—In a "slowish gallop" as Basil Jarvis, trainer, termed it, Papyrus, England's best in horseflesh, went a mile and a quarter for the benefit of some 500 race enthusiasts, at Belmont park, in preparation for his race with Zev for the world's title and $100,000, Oct. 20. He went the distance in 2:16 2-5.

Trotter Lowers World's Record.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 10.—Mr. McElwyn, owned by W. H. L. McCourtie of Dallas, Tex., driven by Ben White, lowered the world's record for two-year-old trotters to 2:04 against time at the grand circuit meet here. The Real Lady held the former record of 2:04 1-4, made at Lexington in 1916.

New Egyptian Print and a Bag to Match

This is one of the many winsome new Egyptian prints. The Egyptian influence also will be noted on the bag.

Styles in Headgear Include Floral Trim

Each week now in Paris brings its full quota of new spring bonnets.

Generally speaking, preference for floral trim is given to flat, many-petaled silk flowers suitable for applique, although novelties in kid, in wool velours, in metal and in stiff lacquered silks are in the market.

In ribbons, everything from the narrowest shoe string type to ribbon in eight or twelve-inch widths is in vogue in plain weaves, in fancy weaves, in changeable effects, and embroidered, printed or scalloped.

Trimnings for the most part meander along at their own sweet will at the front, and the back, at the sides, under the brim, at the top of the brim, at the base or at the top of the crown, according to the shape of the hat and the caprice of the milliner.

Brimms for the most part are very irregular in line this season, and are cut, slashed, notched, rolled or drooped sometimes wide at front and short at the back, and sometimes the reverse; namely, wide at the back and short across the front and sides. The basic principle of construction is, however, for a line short at the back and wide at the front.

Crowns still show a surprising determination to rise to untold—in any case to unbecoming—heights; but hand in hand with these new high-crowned shapes are shapes with soft, supple, squatty sectional crowns just deep enough to take care of the top of the head.

In colors, bright emerald green, soft shades of dull blue Persian greens and bright gentian blue make their bow as the latest novelty shades, while black, shell and blond, alone and in combination, still represent the popular demand. Black hats with a multi-colored trim and hats in a two-tone combination—a light and a dark shade of the same color—are both conspicuous.

There is still a pronounced feeling for metal used for brim facings or for metal used on straw or fabric hats.—Paris Letter to the Dry Goods Economist.

Paris Women Wear Two Kinds of Suits

Two kinds of suits are worn in Paris at the present time, morning suits, for walking on the Bois de Boulogne, and afternoon suits, writes a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. The former have the short English coat with a vest, while the afternoon suit is occasionally ornamented with embroidery or bands of fur and usually is accompanied by a blouse which hangs loosely from the shoulders.

The three-piece suit takes two forms, being either quite simple or very dressy. This is frequently worn to replace the tailored suit or the afternoon dress. Short capes are attached to the jackets of some of these suits.

As to colors, a Persian blue unique in tone is a background for yellow, blond, rosewood, beige and brown, all of which colors are returning in profusion. Black has disappeared.

The pendulum of fashion, having swung away from black, now swings to very bright shades of green, such as jade and emerald. All the green tones are extremely popular at the present time. Water green in particular is considered very smart as is the shade known as bottle-green. Not only is this color seen in fabrics but in jewelry and trimmings. The newest girdles worn on both afternoon and evening dresses are studded with imitation emeralds or with jade.

Taffeta and Lace.

Black lace makes an effective trimming for a frock of green taffeta. It is cut on very old-fashioned lines with a full, long bouffant skirt, and has a shoulder drapery of the lace which fastens in the front with a corsage bouquet.

Shaded Effects.

The use of chiffon in layers is a practice that is gaining in popularity. Sometimes half a dozen different tones are used to get the desired effect. Rose shading into delicate pink, or purple that blends into lavender or orchid are much liked.

VOWS ARE PLIGHTEDMiss Annette Smith Groce Becomes the Bride of Charles Clark Will.

The marriage of Mr. Charles Clark Will and Miss Annette Smith Groce, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Groce was solemnized Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock in the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Mr. Logee, pastor of the church officiated, using the beautiful ring service. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her dress was white moire silk with a court train, trimmed in rosettes of georgette crepe. The veil, caught with orange blossoms, hung long from a coronet of pearls. Her bouquet was white and pink roses, maidenhair fern, caught with a bow of white tulle ribbon. "She was fair to look upon," for besides all the charms of youth, which are hers, Mrs. Will has a brilliant intellect. Altho very early in her twenties, she is a graduate of the Columbus School for Girls and Vassar college, and has had a very successful year in teaching at her alma mater.

Miss Madeline Buzzell was bridesmaid. Her gown was yellow charmeuse; she carried Haron Ward roses. Little Ann and Ellen Bennett, nieces of the bride, in pale green and yellow dresses were flower girls. They carried big hat baskets filled with pink roses and showed their happiness in serving on such an occasion.

The church was artistically decorated with autumn flowers, and an organ concert by Miss Abbe Mills Clark and Miss Bronson just before the arrival of the bridal party, added to the sweet solemnity of the wedding ceremony. Mr. John Goeller was the groom's best man and Messrs. Mack Parrett, William Downs, Foster Welton, and Harry Meffner were ushers.

In the large reception which followed at the home, there were those, who, in the spacious rooms, felt echoes of the times, when, on some such occasion Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Renick, an aunt of Mrs. Groce, stood there, beaming hospitality upon them. And just across the street, was another home where Mr. and Mrs. John Groce so often welcomed their host of friends. Around these two houses is woven much of the history of the social life of Circleville. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Groce have inherited the gracious tendency of their forbears and society finds their doors ever open with a cordial welcome. The house was decorated in fall flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Groce, Mr. Will and Miss Will made up the receiving line. Mrs. Groce wore black chiffon velvet. Miss Will blue georgette. Mrs. Frank Bennett and Mrs. Donald Smith, sisters of the bride were assisting hostesses. Mrs. Bennett's gown was a bronze colored cut velvet; Mrs. Smith's brown charmeuse with lace trimmings.

In the center of the bride's table was a great bride's cake ornamented with flowers. A small metallic basket of flowers, very artistic hung on each tumbler. These baskets came from Paris and were a present to the bride from her aunt, Mrs. Josiah Smith. Around the bride were all the young people of the party and the scene was a picture—a vision of youth. There were many beautiful presents. Mrs. Harry Lawson, of Shelbyville, Indiana, who was Miss Miss Nellie Boggs, and Mrs. Frank Dudley Smith of Muskegon, nee Miss Florene Hoffman, came home for the wedding, to again attend one of those Groce family get-togethers, which so happily featured their childhood days.

Other guests from out of town were Misses Elizabeth Gilbert, of Little Falls, New York; Geraldine Bronson and Susan Brown, Yonkers, New York; Madeline Buzzell of East Orange, New Jersey; Frances Rudy, Paris, Illinois; Katharine Peters, New York; Elizabeth Allen, of Burlington, Vermont; Mary Pope, Detroit, Michigan; Miss Daniels, Miss Cavers and Miss Margaret Williams, Columbus; Mr. Harry Lawson, Shelbyville, Indiana; Mr. Donald Smith, Toledo; Mrs. Kelton, Misses Louise and Grace Kelton, Miss Lattimer, Columbus.

The bride's traveling dress was a blue poret twill with shoes and hat to match. The happy pair left amidst a shower of rice and rose leaves for a short trip. On their return they will take up their abode in the home of Mrs. Krimmel, who contemplating a winter in California, has rented her apartment for the season. The bride is one of Circleville's most charming debutantes and the groom a most popular young banker. They have the happy wishes of the community.

GOOD ADVICE.

All that Circleville needs to start an industrial revival is for its citizens to forget self and join hands in a whole hearted movement in bolstering up industry.

If each person will forget petty personal jealousy, stop knocking and begin to boost in an effective manner the city can easily double its population in five years at the same time doubling the value of every foot of property in the city. Boost, don't knock.

AMUSEMENTS

How many elements of characterization are necessary to a successful motion picture? In William de Mille's Paramount production of "Grumpy," which comes to the Met theater next Monday every essential is made use of. The cast carries on the story in a most pleasing fashion.

"Grumpy" for example, played by Theodore Roberts, one of the featured players, is a lovable, peculiar old character whose keen brain and quick wit saves every situation and who approves heartily of

Conrad Nagel, who enacts the role of Ernest Heron, a featured part, a clean-cut, pleasing young man who is entrusted with the $500,000 diamond. Ernest is in love with

May McAvoy (featured with Roberts and Nagel in her role of Virginia Bullivant, daughter of "Grumpy") May is sweet and winsome at the age when romance rules her woman's heart. She is, therefore, divided between Ernest and

Wolfe, one of England's worst fence for buying stolen jewels (played by Charles French. But Wolfe stays off.

Other characters in the story who lend to the mystery, to the comedy, the romance, thrills and the general plot are Susan, the maid played by Bernice Frank and the parts of Keble Duddock and Dawson, played respectively by Bertram Johns, Charles Ogle and Robert Bolder.

WEATHER SIGNS IN THE SKY

Thought by Some Country People to Be Superior to Weather Bureau Forecasts.

Signs of fair or foul weather are noted very carefully by country people. Some of them are more inclined to believe in old sayings about the weather than in any readings from barometers or the predictions of weather prophets. Here are a few old saws:

Evening red and next morning gray are certain signs of a beautiful day. If the cock goes crowing to bed he'll certainly rise with a watery head.

When black snails cross your path black clouds much moisture hath.

When rooks fly sporting high in air it shows that windy storms are near.

When the peacock loudly bawls soon we'll have both rain and squalls.

If the moon shows like a silver shield be not afraid to reap your field. But if she rises haloed round soon we'll tread on deluged ground.

A rainbow in the morning gives the shepherd warning; that is, if the wind be easterly, because it shows that the rain cloud is approaching the observer.

A rainbow at night is the shepherd's delight; that is, if the wind be westerly, as it shows that the rain clouds are passing away.

If at sunrise or setting the clouds appear of a lurid red color, extending nearly up to the zenith, it is a sure sign of storms and gales of wind.

When you see gossamer flying be ye sure the air is drying.

If the fog lies close to the surface of the ground until it is gradually dissipated by the sun, the day will be bright and fine.—London Tit-Bits.

FISH THAT WARN OF DANGER

Mullet Travel in Armies and Take Precautionary Measures to Protect Themselves.

Fish that give warning to each other on the approach of danger are to be found in the waters of the Pacific. These fish are a specimen of mullet. Because of the precautionary measures they adopt to protect themselves they are often called "alarmin'g" fish.

Unlike many other fish these creatures do not care for swimming alone. More often they move in armies of upwards of 100,000. Besides appointing a number of their companions as officers, others form themselves in a van and rearguard, and a few act as scouts.

So complete is their system of defense that it is almost impossible to take them by surprise. As each army is provided with scouts above and below they issue warning on the least approach of danger. First the scouts communicate the news to the officers who then act on their initiative and try to lead the whole army out of danger.

An instance is recorded where a party of fishermen were once setting their nets in the hope of a big catch when an army of "alarmin'g" fish came along. Quite by accident, one of the men fell out of the boat in pulling in the boat sails.

Naturally he struggled until rescued, but his efforts had so alarmed the fish scouts that for weeks fishing in that quarter proved entirely futile.

It appeared that not only had the army of "alarmin'g" fish moved into another quarter, but they had warned every other friendly species they met during their flight.

All His Worldly Goods.

It was at a fashionable wedding. The bridegroom had no visible means of support save his father, who was rich.

When he came to the stage of the service where he had to repeat, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," his father said in a whisper that could be heard all over the church: "Heavens! There goes his bicycle!"

OWES IT TO GRATITUDE.

You ought to do something for that cold.

What. After the way it has treated me?

Force of Circumstances.

"How did you happen to go into politics?"

"I wanted to serve my country," replied Senator Sorghum; "and, besides, there didn't happen at that time to be any regular line of business in which I had sufficient experience to be in demand."

An Exacting Fit.

"Brown is marrying again, I hear." "So they say, and from all accounts his second wife will make rather a lively stepmother for the children!" "Oh, a sort of watch-your-step-mother, I suppose."—Way-side Tales.

Inherent Possibilities.

Customer—I like that umbrella stand, but I don't think it is worth $5. Salesman—Why, madam, the very first umbrella that is left in it may be worth more than that.—Boston Evening Transcript.

FEW FACTS ABOUT RADIUM

Throws Off Sufficient Heat to Bring Its Own Weight of Water to Boiling Point.

Just about this time twenty-five years ago M. and Mme. Curie were making the experiments which resulted in the discovery of radium.

While our knowledge of the why and wherefore of radium has not materially increased since M. and Mme. Curie announced their momentous discovery, we have learned, more particularly during the last year or two, a good deal of its vagaries and its possibilities in certain branches of medical research. Its potentialities as a whole, however, are still largely a matter of speculation.

Few people have seen radium, and perhaps fewer still recognize it at sight. A tube of radium comprises a piece of talc, behind which is fixed a tiny screen. In front is a magnifying glass, through which may be seen, on the talc, what looks like an infinitesimal yellow stain, not much bigger than the full stop at the end of this sentence. This little speck is radium, and it may be worth anything up to $50,000.

At night the little yellow stain is seen to glow brightly enough to be noticeable yards away. But, although the phenomenon reminds one of phosphorescence, it is very different in character. Phosphorescence is impermanent, whereas the radiation from radium may continue unimpaired for years, and possibly centuries.

Radium throws off sufficient heat to bring its own weight of water to boiling point every hour for a thousand years and more. Its emission of heat can neither be increased nor diminished. It has been tested in extremes of temperature, ranging from liquid air to super-heated braziers, without affecting its radiations in the slightest degree.

These are facts which, while not known to most people, have lately been ascertained by scientists, who are now busily engaged in trying to find a way of harnessing the apparently inexhaustible energy of radium.

Probably in ten years' time we shall not know much more than we do now of the reason why radium possesses these astonishing qualities, but it is more than likely that we shall have found a way of adapting them to our needs.

This Prisoner Was Fastidious.

Recently a prisoner was sent to the county jail, after having faced the county court and been duly given a fine of $10 and a sentence of 30 days in the local bastille on a charge of being drunk in a public place.

Taken to his new boarding house, this man immediately began to complain of his surroundings, and very promptly informed Jailor J. L. Jenkins that he would not eat the bacon, beans, potatoes, and such other food as is commonly served to those who find themselves for the time being forced to be Mr. Jenkins' guests, but that he wanted and must have fried chicken.

Mr. Jenkins, always ready to do everything in his power for a guest, gravely informed the complainant that sometimes they had fried chicken for the prisoners and that if he would only remain long enough he would be sure to get what he wanted along that line.

Mr. Jenkins expects that soon the prisoners will be asking for felt mattresses, ice cream, cold drinks and electric fans.—Greenville (Mo.) Leader.

Hunt for Animal Prowlers.

Did you know that Uncle Sam maintains a standing army of big game hunters whose duty it is to protect the live stock of the country by killing off predatory animals?

This army is under the direction of the United States biological survey. Last year they shot, poisoned or trapped more than 80,000 wild animals in stock-raising sections. In seven years their rifles have brought down more than 380,000 stock-killing beasts, and they are credited with saving $35,000,000 worth of domestic live stock.

A veteran of this service is Ben V. Lily, of New Mexico, who is seventy years old and has been a big game hunter for 60 years. Lily has killed more than 500 mountain lions, and official estimates show that his campaigns against wild animals have saved stockmen in the West many thousands of dollars annually for years.—Popular Science Monthly.

As We Progress.

It was in the year 1925. A New York matron, coming down to breakfast, met her only son ascending the stairs. He was headed for the roof, where his fast airplane awaited him. "Where to, Tommy?" asked the matron.

"Denver for lunch, mother."

"Well, you have a perfect day for flying."

"That is what I thought. So from Denver I may hop off to San Francisco for a little goit."

"Very well, my son. But be home early for dinner."

Circumstantial Evidence.

Bobby—I've been a very good boy since I started going to Sunday school, haven't I?

Mother—Yes, dear, you've been very good, indeed.

Bobby—And you don't distrust me any more, do you?

Mother—No, dear.

Bobby—Then why do you hide the jam?—London Tit-Bits.

AIR LINERS TO EUROPE SOON

Moffet Predicts Ships Will Circle Globe in Two Days.

TO CARRY DOZEN PLANES

What will the airship of the future be?

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, United States navy, ventures an amazing prediction regarding the aviation of tomorrow in Popular Science Monthly, describing a dirigible as large as the Leviathan, capable of sailing around the world in a couple of days, manned by a regiment of men and carrying airplanes as ocean steamships now carry lifeboats, so that passengers may be sent off to wayside destinations.

Ships of the sea have built empires, he writes, altered the destinies of nations, and exerted a profound influence on history through uncounted centuries. With the dawn of the Twentieth century, ships of the air have come as a new challenger of time and space, and their influence upon the trend of world events is to day one of the most potent factors in world progress and development.

To Circle the Globe.

Yesterday we crossed an ocean, to day a continent; tomorrow we circle the globe. New routes for commerce open p by way of the polar air routes. London and Tokyo are drawn together as by magic, and man, creeping on the earth, looks to the sky and reads there the story of a new era.

It requires no great tax on the imagination to picture some of the developments of air transportation which we may expect to see even in our brief span.

Consider a ship of 5,000,000 cubic feet. Such ships are now being planned abroad. They would equal the size of the Leviathan, with a length of 900 feet and more and a diameter greater than the beam of that great vessel. They will carry a weight in fuel and other useful loading of more than 60 tons and could cruise half way around the earth without a stop. Airplanes could be carried on them as are lifeboats on ocean-going vessels. These planes could land on a deck on top of the airship and be launched from it, carrying passengers for wayside destinations. They could be designed to carry a regiment of troops, and a fleet of them could transport an army to the ends of the earth, in time that could be reckoned in hours.

To Carry Dozen Planes.

Airplanes have already been carried by airships, hunched from them, picked up by them. It is well within the bounds of reason to predict that the naval airship of the future will carry a dozen planes that will be capable of defending her against air attack, and in addition will mount a battery of guns that will command the respect of any enemy marauder. This country was among the first to investigate the possibility of airplanes being carried by airships, and the experiment conducted with a type of airship less than one-tenth the size of those now building, proved the practicability of the scheme.

Until now one hazard in airship operation has always stalked like a specter at the heels of this development. Hydrogen-inflated ships carry with them the ever-present danger of fire. Many aerial disasters have been traceable to this.

The United States, possessing as it does the only extensive helium supply in the world, is particularly favored by nature. Helium, an inert gas, is not inflammable. It has but little less than the buoyancy of hydrogen and can be produced at a cost which, though higher than that of hydrogen, is inconsequential compared with the safety and dependability gained.

The helium airship will make this form of travel safe to a degree never before possible. It will assure low insurance rates on merchandise carried by airships.

As a basis for the future of airship development in this country the navy in constructing the ZR-1 is building wisely and well. This craft, the first rigid airship ever built in the United States, has just been completed at Lakehurst, N. J. It is as large as ocean-going steamers, and 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas will be required to inflate it. But withal it is mediocre in size and inferior in performance to similar ships that may be expected to follow.

In the development of aviation America should be in a position to point the way to the world.

OIL FOUND IN ARGENTINA

Rich Deposits of Petroleum in Province of Jujuy.

What are apparently rich deposits of petroleum have been found in the province of Jujuy, Argentina.

Borings made under the direction of the administration of state railways resulted in striking oil at a depth of 530 meters. A column of oil ascended the tube for a distance of 150 meters, from which two tons were pumped in three hours. Work was then suspended to await the erecting of storage tanks.

Engineers are confident that borings 30 meters deeper will tap an extensive petroleum strata. The oil is said to be of high quality.

DEATH OF DR. BRAGDON.

Rev. Charles Arthur Bragdon, S. T. D., who was rector of St. Philip's Episcopal church, Circleville in 1878, died at his home near Grandview, Washington, on September 4, at the age of 74 years.

Dr. Bragdon was born at Canton, St. Lawrence county, New York, July 11, 1849. He graduated from Hobart college in 1873, and from the General Theological seminary, New York, in 1876. After serving for about a year as rector of St. Philip's he was for eight years in the diocese of Albany, followed by thirteen years in the diocese of Buffalo, for five years of which he was arch deacon of the diocese. He next served six years as arch deacon of the diocese of Pittsburgh and for the next eight years was rector of St. Matthew's church, Homestead, Pennsylvania.

In 1911 Dr. Bragdon bought a tract of apple land near Grandview, Washington and while developing this, did missionary work but continued to aid the bishop and neighboring clergy as opportunity and time allowed.

While serving as rector of St. Philip's Dr. Bragdon married Clara Louise, daughter of the late Alfred Williams. He is survived by his widow, a son, Arthur Bragdon and a daughter, Miss Louise Bragdon.

The great industry James J. Hinde built at Sandusky and other cities, prospered because of liberal wages.

Hard Spring Wheat Resistant to Stem Rust

Variety Known as Kota Has Been Developed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A hard red spring wheat that is resistant to the principal forms of black stem rust has been developed in North Dakota by the United States Department of Agriculture and the North Dakota agricultural experiment station. This wheat was first introduced from Russia in 1903 by Prof. H. L. Bolley, and is now known as Kota. About 6,000 acres of Kota wheat were grown in 1922, and much more this year.

The particular virtue of Kota wheat is its resistance to the black stem rust which is general throughout the hard red spring wheat region. Its rust resistance was not determined until after the great rust epidemic of 1916. It is also fairly resistant to drought and outyields Marquis in North Dakota, averaging nearly three bushels more per acre during the past five years. It is a bearded wheat which ripens about as early as Marquis. In milling and baking experiments conducted independently by the Department of Agriculture and the North Dakota experiment station, Kota wheat has shown results nearly equal to those obtained with Marquis.

Experiments with Kota wheat have been carried on in a number of other states as well as in North Dakota, and the wheat was found best adapted to the district where durum wheat is extensively grown. Kota wheat could replace much of the durum wheat now grown in eastern North Dakota and South Dakota with profit to both the hard red spring and the durum wheat industries, department workers believe. This variety is recommended for North Dakota and adjacent portions of neighboring states.

Origin of Pledge.
Penny, pawn, panel, pane all are derived from the same root, and all mean a pledge. The readiest pledge to leave in pawn in days of old was cloth, hence the Latin "panna," a piece of cloth. The original panel was a piece of cloth, or patch, and from this we get the word "pane" as applied to a pane of glass, and also the word "penny," its literal meaning being a pledge or token, and hence a coin. Originally the word was spelt "peny."

Every Dairymen Should Know Profitable Cows

"Every owner of dairy cows should know if his cows are giving enough milk or butterfat to make a profit over the cost of feed," says A. C. Baer, professor of dairying at Oklahoma A. and M. college. "A scale to weigh the milk in the barn can be bought for $4. It takes only a few minutes a day extra time to weigh the milk from each cow and write the weight on a milk sheet tacked up in the barn. Once a month a sample of milk can be tested. Any creamery, ice cream factory, or cream station will usually be glad to do this testing. Every school house can be equipped with a tester at very little expense and the boys at school can do the testing."

"A profitable cow should produce 6,000 pounds of milk or 200 pounds of butterfat in 300 days. Are your cows all profitable? Why not find out? Is milking dairy cows a business proposition with you? If so, why not apply business methods? Write the dairy department, Oklahoma A. and M. college for information."

Soy Beans and Corn Are Well Balanced Hog Feed

Some ask why soy beans and corn make economical gains on swine. The reason is that they are a well-balanced ration, soy beans showing a high analysis in the nutrients in which corn is deficient. For example, soy beans have more than four times as much digestible crude protein as corn, while corn has more than 2½ times as much digestible carbohydrates as soy beans. In other words, one of these feeds is strong where the other is weak and vice versa.

Culling Should Not Be Done at Certain Times

Culling is a constant work in the poultry yard. It should not be relegated to certain periods of the year; it takes too long to stop the appetites of the surplus cockerel and the culls. The fellow who waits until fall to sell the culls is going to lose money two ways—in the extra feed he has fed, and in the lower price paid, due to glutted market. Besides, fowls sold for table use at the right time always bring better prices than those which have been held so long that the flesh is tough.

Immense Loss Caused by Insect Attacks on Trees

Foresters and entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture declare that the losses caused by insect attacks upon living trees and crude, finished, and utilized forest products amount to $130,000,000 annually. A recent report touching upon this and other forestry subjects declares that these vast losses clearly emphasize the need for educational work and the development of systematic control measures which now are woefully inadequate.

Not Difficult Matter to Produce Good Chickens

There isn't any mystery in the poultry business. The essentials of it can be summed up in a few phrases: Breed 'em, feed 'em, keep 'em clean, and don't crowd 'em.

Of course, you can write books about breeds and feeds, sanitation and shelter. But it's all just common sense. Farm chickens, which have plenty of range, are practically no trouble after they get three weeks old. They balance their own rations, and look after themselves in the summer time.

Naboth's Vineyard.
Naboth's vineyard was a vineyard in Jezreel, greatly coveted by Ahab, king of Israel. Naboth, the owner, declined, however, either to sell the vineyard to the king or exchange it for another, and was, in consequence, cruelly murdered on a false charge of blasphemy, trumped up by the infamous queen, Jezebel. Ahab thereupon took immediate possession of the vineyard, but was met by the prophet Elijah, who denounced the wickedness of the king and queen and foretold the awful doom that awaited Jezebel and her children. The phrase "Naboth's vineyard" is sometimes used to denote any possession greatly coveted by others.

NINE O'CLOCK GIRL

By JULIE DRISKO

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

"I SPOKE I might call Nicky," sighed Aileen, fretfully, "but I don't get a bit of a kick out of it. Oh, dear, nurse, can't I sit up tomorrow?"
"I think so, dear, and I hope so, but just now you must think of sleep."
"But I'm not sleepy. Oh, I'll call Nicky for a minute and give him a thrill. It was dear of him to send the jonquills."

Turning to her bedside 'phone, Aileen called the fraternity number, and when a deep voice answered it was Aileen, after all, who received the thrill.

"Oh, nurse," in an aside of wild excitement, "I do believe it's that wonderful Jackie Ryan, the baseball coach. I'm going to give him a line. Don't tell on me, will you?"
"Yes, is this Jack Ryan?" cooed Aileen.

"Ye-es?" came the questioning reply. "And how are you this fine evening, Mr. Ryan?" Aileen laughed.
"But who is this?" Jack laughed back.

Just then the heavy, solemn boom of the great-grandfather clock in the hall could be heard tolling the hour.

"Hear that?" queried Aileen.
"Yes, and listen"—and a more modern affair in the fraternity house clearly struck nine bell-like notes.

"Well, good-night, then," Aileen sighed, "for I am the Nine o'Clock Girl."

In the days that followed Nicky forgot to eat, and in the nights that followed the days he found it impossible to sleep. Aileen was using him frightfully. She had sent him only one little note in four days and he had been allowed but a very few minutes by her chair in the warm sun of the late spring afternoon before, where she convalesced in youthful glory.

Aileen had captured Nicky's fraternity pin and double pneumonia on the same night not three weeks since, by sitting out four dances in a flood of moonlight on a draughty window seat, respectively.

Now Nicky knew that, though pneumonia had changed this girl of his a bit in weight and color, only to make her frailer and fairer, he couldn't understand what had so changed her heart to make her love him more lightly.

Aileen, however, ate hungrily of days and dreamed romantically of nights. She had had another nine o'clock talk with Jack and had sent him a note, a whimsical little note of mystery and spring. Aileen was weaving love dreams.

Jack Ryan had laughed when the telephone had clicked on the "Nine o'Clock Girl" the first time. The second time he had brazenly asked Central what number had called.

"Some line she's handin' you, I'll say," said the inquisitive Central, "it's 448 that called."

And Jack had looked it up.
"Look here, Nicky, you aren't eating well these days, and you need your strength, man. We'll be out on the diamond in a day or two, now. Anything wrong?"

"Not a thing, Jack, thanks. Just hopin' for that outdoor work to start," said Nicky bravely, but he hadn't fooled his coach.

"Oh—oh, how wonderful!" Aileen clasped her hand in ecstasy. She was sitting in the big chair in the sun parlor, where the moon was casting a golden splendor over the flower baskets filled with the glorious radiance of spring-loving jonquills.

The sharp peal of the doorbell stopped the nurse in her attempt to draw the convalescent upstairs to bed.
"Well, then, just for a moment, if it's really necessary," Aileen heard the nurse say, and then—in walked the hero of her dreams, the coach.

"It's almost nine o'clock," he began, "and I didn't want to spoil our happy little play by coming at any other hour." Aileen sat breathless while he continued: "You know I think you are a dear, and I was glad to learn of your engagement to my best pal, Nicky Barry."

"My wife and the kids and I all love Nicky. He's the best man on the team, and I'm rather set up to think his girl would pick me out to have a little spring fun with, only," and here he took Aileen's hand and looked so very serious that Aileen almost had a relapse, "only," he continued, "you can't think how it hurt me to think you'd write me such a corking little note and then call me a 'couch' in it."

So jolly was the laugh that followed that Aileen found herself enjoying it quite as much as Jack. Solemnly sounded the warning notes of the great-grandfather clock in the hall.

"Good-night, little Nine o'Clock Girl."

Aileen wrote her notes to Nicky, thenceforth, because, after all, he could not spell any better than she could. And Nicky ate of days and, no doubt, snored happily of nights.

In time Aileen was next best friend to the family of the already beloved Nicky (the two little Ryans were dears), and the "couch" never told on his "Nine o'Clock Girl."

His Way.

"Who was that shabby, tiresome old party who hung around here this forenoon arguing that the world is flat and the sun moves?" asked a guest.

CITIES DOUBLE HEALTH BUDGET

Infant Welfare and School Hygiene Among Items Gaining Attention, Says Report.

Baltimore.—Cities of America are placing increasing importance on the health of the community. From 1910 to 1920 health department budgets were enlarged to a degree promising marked benefits, it is indicated in an analysis by W. Thurber Fales of the School of Hygiene and Public Health, Johns Hopkins university.

The average for 45 cities showed a 95 per cent increase in per capita appropriations 1910 to 1920 and an expense for health departments of 70.4 cents in 1920. The greatest increase was made by cities of 250,000 to 500,000 population, averaging 125 per cent.

Two items—infant welfare and school hygiene—indicate an awakening of the nation to the importance of giving every child a better chance for healthy development. The American Child Health association, under the presidency of Herbert Hoover, has been acting as a clearing house for child health information to enable private agencies to supplement and assist official activities.

Every City Spending More.

Every city, Mr. Fales finds, showed an increase in its health department budget. Milwaukee, with 343 per cent increase, headed the list, while Elizabeth, N. J., showed but 25 per cent, according to Mr. Fales' figures.

Health departments of 81 cities surveyed by Mr. Fales revealed per capita expenditures for all purposes except construction of or addition to buildings of 97.4 cents. Health service funds for activities dealing directly with the protection of public health aside from the cost of hospitals for communicable diseases and sanatoria, averaged 51.6 cents per capita.

Bridgeport, Conn., Yonkers and Flint, Mich., were at the top of the list in per capita expenditures solely for health service with rates of 104.9 cents, 93.5 cents and 88.2 cents.

In 72 cities child welfare and school hygiene expenditures ranked next to the more general costs of sanitary inspection, communicable disease control, food inspection and administration. Even so, the amounts spent on these services by health departments were not great, that for school hygiene being 3.9 cents per capita and for infant welfare 3.6 cents.

Figures Given for Forty Cities. Because school health supervision is under control of the board of education in many cities, Mr. Fales doubts that these figures present a complete picture of this service. In 30 cities where budgetary provision is made to cover all school health supervision Mr. Fales found an average of 8.8 cents per capita.

These amounts do not include money spent for contagious disease hospitals, sanatoria, garbage or refuse disposal.

Inmate of Poorhouse

San Francisco.—A conscience legacy of more than $10,000 was left the San Francisco Relief home by Nicholas Mulvaney, ninety, an inmate of the home, as a result of the accidental discovery that he was the possessor of a fortune of $23,000 in cash, it became known recently when his will was admitted to probate. A few months before Mulvaney died an attendant at the home picked up his bank book showing the $23,000 deposit. The superintendent of the home criticized him for living on public charity, but Mulvaney begged to remain at the home, saying that he had spent the happiest years of his life there, and that he would remember it in his will. His request was granted.

Prosecutor Wants

Spanking Machine

Winnipeg.—A spanking machine which would have instruments varying from a broad paddle to a cat-o-nine tails, and so geared as to be administered with different degrees of severity, was advocated to take the place of jail sentences for first offenders under the criminal code by Crown Prosecutor R. B. Graham. Mr. Graham strongly advocated the use of some sort of a machine to take the place of corporal punishment by the human hand and said he believed such an innovation would materially reduce crime.
